

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A smart battery pack having an inexpensive, high-performance N-channel MOS transistor is provided. A level shift is conducted in communications between a remaining battery power detecting circuit of the smart battery pack and an electronic device such that the shifted level matches the signal level of the electronic device.